Are you hooked into TED Talks yet?

TED (Technology, Entertainment, Design) are a series of global conferences whereby a wide variety of interesting people doing maverick things convene and each speaks for a precise 15 minutes.

TED has now expanded even wider to a series of satellite conferences referred to as TEDx.

Was privileged to speak at TEDx Berlin over the Thanksgiving holiday. The theme of this particular conference was Crossing Borders, from the young Carolina Gonzalez-Bunster who has founded the Walkabout Foundation whereby she delivers state-of-the-art wheel chairs in developing countries, all on the heels of her brother becoming paralyzed after a devastating car accident.....to the elderly and mesmerizing neurologiist/psychiatrist Peter Fenwick who speaks to the final cross-over from this life to what may lie beyond.

TEDx events have now expanded to Khartoum and Baghdad and just about every corner of the globe.

The TED experience online is a brilliant opportunity for all of us to tune into the prestigious TED speakers throughout the conference history, back to 1990. You can literally spend 15 quality minutes at a time and hear every speaker who has ever presented from the TED stages.

For my part, being invited into the TED family has opened my eyes to a vast array of individuals dedicated to unique and life-changing works in today's world.
