Last night, after Diana was stung in the face by another Portuguese Man-of-War, her safety diver, Rob MacDonald, donated his heat cap that he had used when he climbed Mount Rainier. He and other crew members cut eyeholes and a mouth hole out of the cap to create a neoprene mask that was placed over Diana's face to protect her from further stings. The decorations on Rob's hat? Little teeny sharks. Diana, wearing a long sleeved pink shirt, black neoprene mask, blue swim cap and transparent goggles, was quite a vision!

ohhh, is she swimming in the long sleeved cotton shirt? That's a lot of drag...maybe some saran wrap will protect her arms? Or neoprene sleeves?

Would the saran wrap diminish the skin's ability to breathe and cause more heat to be kept in the extremities? Just a thought... really dose up maybe with vaseline.. or some petroleum jelly to help stave off some of the water's irritants?? just a thought.

And NOW Diana is a "fashionista" too!!! And rumor has it she is writing a book... CHICKEN SOUP FOR THE SWIMMER.. lol... She is without doubt the MOST versatile woman on this planet!! How many ways can you say "determined, dedicated, and amazing" 200,000 ways (written with STROKES)... keep up the sense of humor and your fight.. you are getting so close now.

Your message... I stayed up late watching and waiting and just now fell out of bed. My husband's going to the gym and here I am by the computer watching to see what's gonna happen next with you. At least you don't have to worry about what you're gonna be for Halloween - sounds like you got the costume down. Go, go, go! You are one strong woman!
